

EXPECT PROTEST FROM REPUBLICS

Opposition to American Policy in Central America May Develop At International Conference.

UNWILLING TO ADOPT LAW.

May Show United States Their Unwillingness to Accept Action as Part Of International Code.

Washington, July 6.—That at least three, and perhaps more, of the Central and South American republics will make a concerted protest of some kind at the coming international conference of American states at Buenos Ayres, against the Central American policy of the United States, is the possibility being discussed in diplomatic circles here.

Rumors to this effect have been persistent, and some representatives of Latin-American republics admitted their approximate truth, though none would permit himself to be quoted.

The rumors have led to lively exchange of information among the Central and South American diplomats here. Officials of the state department are watching the situation closely.

Some of the more radical of the Spanish-Americans are said to favor a Latin-American alliance against the United States. It is generally conceded, however, that formal action of this nature is unlikely.

The most that can be regarded as probable is that the republics interested will give the United States to understand diplomatically that the principles represented in the attitude of this government in the east coast of Nicaragua will not be accepted willingly as a part of the international law of the Americas. It is hardly likely that this protest, if made, will become a part of the official proceedings of the conference.

Notwithstanding the recent statement by the Venezuelan government on the subject, it is still reported here that the Venezuelan delegates will be the leaders in the protesting against the attitude of the United States and that at least two other governments will share the responsibility of the movement.

ACTED ON PRECEDENT.

Doubt exists in Washington as to just what steps of the American government have been distasteful to the Latin-American republics. The only concrete point mentioned in this connection was first proposed by Madrid, president of the government at Managua, when he protested against the action of American marines in preventing an attack by the Madrid forces upon the city of Bluefields. This was done on the ground that the American interests are active there and followed the precedent of the British government in prohibiting fighting at Bluefields. Later the Venzuela was prohibited by the American officials from firing on Bluefields.

"According to international law," said Madrid, in a note to the American consul at Managua, "no neutral government may impede or disturb in time of war legitimate military operations of belligerents. Foreigners equally with citizens are subject to the contingencies of these operations."

Madrid not only meant this to be communicated to the American government but has protested to every Central and South American government against the attitude of the United States.

On the diplomacy of the American delegates to the conference may depend largely the outcome of the matter. In this delegation are such experienced diplomats as Henry White, ambassador to Italy and later to France; Dr. John Bassett Moore, recognized authority on international law; Enoch Herbert Crowder of Missouri; Lewis Nixon of New York; Bernard Moses of California; Lamar Charles Quintana of Louisiana; Paul Samuel Reinsch of Wisconsin and David Kinley of Illinois.

It was well understood that the American diplomats will not attempt to influence greatly the disposition of general matters coming before the conference, thus lessening the possibility of increasing the agitation. They probably will assume the attitude that the conference is "not their show," and will bear in mind that they are only one-twentieth part of the assembly.

ROOSEVELT ON PRIMARY REFORM

Has Editorial on Gov. Hughes For Principle Given in Proposed Reform Measure.

MORE DEMOCRATIC IDEAS.

Blames Republican Majority in Both Houses in New York for Not Carrying Out Recommendations.

New York, July 6.—Former President Roosevelt deals with Gov. Hughes, the New York legislature, and primary reform in a signed editorial article in the current number of the Outlook.

Mr. Roosevelt writes as follows: "I believe that Gov. Hughes has been supported by the bulk of the wisest and most disinterested people as regards most of his measures and positions, and I think that this has been markedly the case as regards primary nominations."

"I know that many honest and sincere men are on principle opposed to Gov. Hughes on this point, and I know also that the proposed reform will very possibly accomplish less than its extreme advocates expect, but I am well aware as of course all thinking men must be, that the worth of any such measure in the last resort depends upon the character of the voters and that no patent device will ever secure good government until the people themselves devote sufficient energy, time and judgment to make the device work."

"Finally, I freely admit that here and there, when the principle of direct nominations has been applied in too crude shape, or wrongheadedly, it has, while abolishing certain evils, produced or accentuated others—in certain cases, for instance, putting a premium upon the lavish expenditure of money."

"But while I freely admit all this, I nevertheless feel in the first place that on the fundamental issue of direct primary nominations the government is right, and in the second place, that as the measure finally came up for action in the state legislature it was well nigh free from all objections save those of the men who put a premium upon the lavish expenditure of money."

"The bill provided only for direct popular action in the primaries in relatively small geographical and political communities, thereby making the experiment first where there was least liability to serious objections, and allowing the principle of dealing with those big communities where the difficulties and dangers to be overcome would be greatest."

PLACES RESPONSIBILITY.

"The Republican party was in the majority in both houses of the legislature which refused to carry out the Republican governor's recommendations; and although it was the principle of the Republican members which brought about this refusal, the party cannot escape a measure of responsibility for the failure, but it is only just to remember that a clear majority of the Republican members of each house supported the bill, whereas three-fourths or over of the Democrats opposed it. This is one of the cases where it is easier to apportion individual than party responsibility."

"Those who believe that by their action they have definitely checked the movement for direct popular primaries are, in my judgment, mistaken. In its essence this is a movement to make the government more democratic, more responsive to the needs and wishes of the people as a whole. With our political machinery it is essential to have an efficient party, but the machinery ought to be suited to democratic and not oligarchic customs and habits."

NOT TO DRIVE.

"The question whether in a self-governing republic we shall have self-governing parties is larger than the particular bill. We hold that the right of popular self-government is incomplete unless it includes the right of the voters to make the choice between candidates when they have been nominated, but also the right to determine who these candidates shall be. Under our system of party government, therefore, the voters should be guaranteed the right to determine within the ranks of their respective organizations who the candidates of the parties will be, no less than the right to choose between the candidates when the candidates are presented to them."

"There is no desire to break down the responsibility of party organization under duly constituted party leadership, but there is a desire to make this responsibility real and to give the members of the party the right to say whom they desire to execute this leadership. In New York state no small part of the strength of the movement has come from the popular conviction that many of the men most prominent in party leadership tend at times to forget that in a democracy the function of political leader must normally be to lead, not to drive."

"We, the men who compose the great bulk of the community, wish to govern ourselves. We welcome leadership, but we wish our leaders to understand that they derive their strength from us and that although we look to them for guidance, we expect this guidance to be in accordance with our interests and our ideals."

"I believe that the people of New York state will in the end insist on taking a more direct part in the nomination of candidates because I believe they will grow more and more to insist on just the kind of guidance and leadership that I have mentioned."

Stories of Success

JAMES OLIVER.

It was the great Franklin that said: "Now deep while sluggard sleep" but it was left to a poor boy born in bonny Scotland to bring the plow up to its highest efficiency.

James Oliver farced forth to fame and fortune in America when he was 11 years old, his first job being on a farm near Geneva, New York, at fifty cents a week and board.

The call of the West caused the family to remove to Mishawaka, Indiana, where in a log school house James attended school just one winter.

His rise from a cooper shop at two dollars a day to the great Oliver Chilled Plow Works giving employment to thousands proclaims a story of great success.

"I know that a conspiracy exists to accomplish my downfall," he said. "Whether it succeeds or not does not matter, as the time has come when Spain will place herself abreast of modern nations."

BELIEVES SON INSANE.

Kingston, N. Y., July 6.—When Col. Henry Watterson of Louisville, Ky., arrived here this afternoon he did not go near his son, Ewing, who is in jail charged with having shot Michael Martin, a saloon keeper, but conferred with William D. Brinnier, his counsel. He was in conference over the telephone with Dist. Atty. Mahoney at Ellonsville, who said his attitude will be in accord with that of the colonel if the present situation remains unchanged. This statement, in conjunction with the fact that no application has been made for the release of Ewing Watterson on bail is taken to indicate that Col. Watterson believes his son is insane, and that he will approve an application by the de-

S.S.S. PERMANENTLY HEALS SORES AND ULCERS

No matter in what way an old sore or ulcer first commenced, whether from a wound, cut, or bruise, or from the ulceration of a pimple, wart or mole, or even if it came without apparent reason, the fact that it does not heal shows that bad blood is back of the place. While the circulation remains impure and polluted the nerves and tissues of the flesh around the place are constantly being fed with unhealthy matter and the fibres are thus prevented from knitting together and healing. Purify the blood and the place MUST heal, its cause having been removed. S.S.S. cures old sores and chronic ulcers because it is the greatest of all blood purifiers. It cleanses and removes from the circulation every taint or impurity, and so enriches the blood that it feeds and nourishes the tender, sensitive flesh, causes a knitting together of all fibrous tissue and thus heals the place entirely; it works on the simple principle of curing by removing the impurities which produce the trouble.
